

Internship Housing Guide
Office of Senator Scott Brown

Please find the information below to help with your housing search. Senator Brown cannot endorse any particular housing option, but the following institutions provide temporary housing. There are various types of housing opportunities in the D.C. metropolitan area. During your internship, finding housing with a university or a furnished apartment on a short-term lease is usually the best option. When searching for housing, consider your transportation options, as well as the safety and security of the building and neighborhood. Please contact the D.C. office at (202) 224-4543 if you need further information. Good luck with the search!
